The Academy for Lifelong Learning of Cape Cod, Inc. (A.L.L.) offers an opportunity for those who are 50 and over to pursue their intellectual interests and educational activities, and to explore new areas of learning in the company of their peers. Social relationships and special events are integral parts of our mission.

A.L.L. is a volunteer organization of 700 men and women which offers its members primarily academic courses in addition to several creative and “how-to” courses in its fall and spring semesters. Classes vary from semester to semester. This fall we are offering 85 different courses, with the opportunity to attend multiple classes at a reasonable rate. Academic offerings include courses in literature, history, current events, art and music appreciation, while creative courses include topics such as origami, painting and other skills of interest to our membership.

A.L.L. offers its members opportunities to expand social relationships throughout the year and participate in social activities and special events such as lectures and trips to theater productions and museums in the area. Social interaction and volunteerism are important aspects of A.L.L. Members are encouraged to become class instructors, participate on committees, and work on administrative activities, in addition to participating in any of our classes and other activities.

The Academy was founded over 30 years ago as part of Cape Cod Community College’s Center for Successful Aging. In 1990, A.L.L. became an independent and self-governing entity though we continue to have a close and productive relationship with the college. A.L.L. offers classes primarily at the main campus of Cape Cod Community College in West Barnstable, and other locations are also used from time to time.

We look forward to seeing you in a class at A.L.L.!
